

Endobiogénie

Your body is unique. Unique for its strengths, weaknesses, and ability to overcome disease. This is why you need a personalized approach to wellness.

Your health is determined by balance - balance among nerves, hormones, and organ systems. This balance is affected by genetics, lifestyle, emotional state, and environment. Imbalances give rise to diseases that can be difficult to explain, much less treat.

Endobiogénie is an innovative approach to wellness that identifies the imbalances that are causing your suffering. It focuses on the cause of disease, not just symptoms. It explains why repeated stresses to the body or mind can lead to illness and why emotions have such a powerful impact on health. It also explains why certain people are prone to develop certain diseases.

A complete endobiogenic evaluation utilizes the following:

- 1) A detailed health history questionnaire that helps identify inherent weaknesses as well as environmental and social factors that affect your health.
- 2) Biology of Functions analysis: an intricate, computerized analysis of labwork that identifies imbalances in the nervous and hormonal systems. It also detects risks for future illness.
- 3) A detailed 30 point physical exam: this comprehensive exam performed by a specially trained physician will reveal the subtle and overt physical manifestations of your hormonal function.

After extensive analysis, a personalized treatment plan will be developed. Treatments will consist of herbs, essential oils, dietary supplements, and lifestyle changes. We acknowledge that traditional medicines are sometimes necessary, but in our experience many patients drastically decrease or completely stop their prescription medicines after endobiogenic treatment. Our goal is to empower you to revive your own natural healing abilities and achieve a better quality of life. We know that you only have one body, and our mission is to enable you to attain all the energy, happiness, and vitality of which your body is capable.

IMPORTANT: *Although Endobiogénie and Biology of Functions have been studied closely and extensively in France, they have not yet been subjected to the requirements of scientific scrutiny according to American medical standards. However, since herbs and supplements are available over-the-counter to all Americans, it is our belief that patients are serving themselves well by undergoing an endobiogenic evaluation to assist them in selecting herb and supplement therapy with the greatest potential benefit and the least potential risk to them as unique individuals. Dr. Lapraz, the co-innovator of Endobiogénie, is a French licensed medical doctor. Dr. Lapraz is not an Idaho licensed M.D. or D.O. and he is not licensed under the provisions of Idaho Statutes 54-1804.
